Atlanta Chapter History
The AABE Atlanta Local Chapter was formed in 1982 under the leadership of the late James K. Davis Jr., Vice-President at Georgia Power Company and Isaac Blythers, Vice President at Atlanta Gas Light. Since its inception, the Atlanta Chapter has encouraged full participation of its members, by providing timely, relevant information, and enhanced professional and career development through chapter meetings, community events and other member activities. AABE Atlanta is one of nine chapters in the Southeast Region, with more than 130 members.

Atlanta Chapter Goals
Our goals are designed to impact the community through student activities, mentoring programs, educational forums, philanthropic activities, and leadership and service opportunities for our members. We do this by:

- Supporting the mission of the national office of AABE
- Providing value-added programming and events to increase awareness on energy-related topics and issues
- Providing scholarships to minority students pursuing higher education in STEM and other energy-related fields

AABE National Mission
AABE (American Association of Blacks in Energy) is a national association of energy professionals founded and dedicated to ensure the input of African Americans and other minorities into the discussions and developments of energy policies, regulations, R&D technologies, and environmental issues; and welcomes anyone supporting this mission.

Atlanta Chapter Recognition
- Atlanta Chapter named Top Recruiting Chapter at the national level 2016-2019.
- Outstanding Chapter of the Year Award for years 2001-2010.
- Since 1994, AABE Atlanta has granted approximately $630K in scholarships, resulting in 563 awards to 450 metro-Atlanta high school seniors and college students pursuing energy careers.
- AABE Atlanta had one (1) National and three (3) Regional scholarship recipients.

Historically, AABE Atlanta partners with EVHYBRIDNOIRE for Spelman College’s Founder’s Day, provide Executive Sponsorship for the AABE Annual Conference, and support the annual Scholarship Awards Program at the AABE National Conference.
